Workingmen Organizing on a Large Scale and Many Employers Are Americans, but Others Are Not, and There Is No Distinction-Diaz Keeping the Peace.

Rumors of an anti-American movement in Mexico have been drifting across the border into Texas for several months and have been telegraphed thence to American industrial centres. New York has recently received despatches via El Paso that have described the situation as serious and have pictured American corporations as hiring hundreds of detectives for self-protection

The leading concerns in this city interested In Mexican manufacturing and mining were almost a unit yesterday in declaring the rumors to be false. A representative of the Greene Consolidated Copper Company said that the men who started and spread the rumors had "ulterior" motives not unconnected with stock jobbing.

At the Guggenheim Exploration Company's office it was said that there was no foundation of fact in the reports that there was an anti-American agitation. An official of the Mexican Exploration and Development Company said that its persistent efforts to find any strictly anti-American sentiment had been without result; there was an agitation by the laborers for higher wages which has caused some trouble.

L. C. Simonds, associate editor of the Merican Herald, who arrived here several days ago directly from the City of Mexico and who is thoroughly familiar with the situation, said:

There is absolutely no foundation for the stories that are being circulated in the press of the United States in regard to an anti-foreign or anti-American movement on the part of the working classes in Mexico. A high official of one of the American owned railways in Mexico assured me that these stories originated from a discharged employee of that corporation. "Americans in Mexico are protected in

"Americans in Mexico are protected in their lives and property and are as safe there as they would be if travelling or residing in Great Britain or Germany. The Mexican authorities afford every safeguard for both the citizen and foreigner, and Americans who have friends or relatives residing in Mexico need not be under the Vertex propropersion set their safety. slightest apprehension as to their safety.
"Indeed, these stories in regard to an anti-foreign attitude of the Mexican populace would be simply laughed at by Americans in Mexico were it not realized that they are calculated to do some harm among the large class of readers who, while knowing in a general way that Mexico is well governed at present, do not realize the perfect order and stability that now prevall there under the strong and righteous administration of President Diaz. "What is true, and what may have given rise to the mendacious stories in question, is that labor is organizing in Mexico on a greater scale than ever before. But there is nothing anti-foreign and still less anti-and soft less antiamerican in this movement. It was bound to come sooner or later as an inevitable consequence of the growing industrial development of the country. Labor unions or guilds have existed in Mexico for years past, but their object hitherto has been purely fraternal or philanthropic. Now the working class in Mexico, owing to the establishment of new industries, has be-come so numerous that these unions have come so numerous that these unions have taken on a new cast and have adopted as part of their programme the cooperation of all such associations for the defence of the rights of labor. This is an entirely new departure in Mexico, and as the working classes are throwing themselves into it with an enthusiasm characteristic of the classes are throwing themselves into it with an enthusiasm characteristic of the Latin race the Government has thought proper to take steps to the end that it may not lead to excesses or disorderly demonstrations of any kind.

"At Orizaba, which is the centre of the cotton spinning and weaving industry of Mexico, where over 15,000 workingmen are employed in the mills, an incipient strike for higher wages recently occurred and the authorities took measures to prevent any rictous acts on the part of the went any riotous acts on the part of the strikers. The cotton mills of Orizaba are owned exclusively by Frenchmen and Spaniards. On the other hand the rail-Spaniards. On the other hand the railways, the large smelting plants and some other industrial concerns are owned by Americans, and in general it may be said that a considerable proportion of the industries of Mexico are owned, operated and managed by foreigners, so that it is extremely easy for ill intentioned persons to distort this movement of Mexican labor, of which I have spoken, for a fuller protection of its rights, by representing it tection of its rights, by representing it as a movement aimed against foreigners. But it is not, for the movement in question s equally perceptible in the case of manu-Is equally perceptible in the case of manufacturing concerns owned and operated by Mexicans, of which there are a number.

The authorities do not object to the association of Mexican labor for the protection of its legitimate interests; they rather encourage it. But they are fully resolved to maintain order at all costs resolved to maintain order at all costs and they take steps to that end whenever there seems to be any danger of it being disturbed as a result of discontent among the operatives of large industrial concerns."

TWO GIRLS ENTICED HERE.

Came From Fall River on False Promises of a Theatrical Job.

Ames Bulger, a private detective who is always on the job, came down from Fall River yesterday morning. On the boat were two young women and two girls in short dresses and sailor suits, who were clearly under age. He got into conversation with the women, and their talk led to suspect that the girls weren't coming to New York for their own good, especially when the girls told him one of the women had promised to put them on the stage. One of the women left the boat at New-port, but Bulger kept his eye on the other

When they reached Broadway and War-ren street, after leaving the boat, Bulger called on Policeman Rooney to arrest the woman on a charge of abduction. Rooney did so, and the three were taken at once to did so, and the three were taken at once to the Children's Court. There the girls were remanded to the Gerry society for an investigation, while the woman was taken to the Tombs court. A CLERGYMAN'S DETECTIVES WATCH ROBERT DUN DOUGLASS,

HIS LAWYER SAYS. The Rev. Walter D. Buchanan of the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church, an Execu-

Credit of It at the Mercantile Agency. That the Rev. Dr. Walter D. Buchanan, easter of the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church, one of the trustees of the R. G. Dun mercantile agency and an executor of R. G. Dun's will, has had private detectives on the track of Robert Dun Douglass, also trustee and executor, for the last three months, was the assertion made yesterday by Isaac N. Miller of 293 Broadway, attorney for Mr. Douglass. This statement came out through the arrest on Saturday of a man who had been standing across the street from Mr. Douglass's office at 290 Broadway all the afternoon and who, according to Mr. Douglass and employees of the R. G. Dun firm, had been following Mr. Douglass for a week or more. When the man, who gave his name as Jerome Carroll, was first arraigned in the Tombs police court Sunday Mr. Douglass said Carroll had been trailing him even to his home in Orange, and finally hired an office across the street and spied

The case had another hearing yesterday afternoon, when a lawyer for Mr. Carroli maintained that he had committed no offence in posting himself across the street. Magistrate Breen adjourned the case until Friday afternoon to receive briefs.

Magistrate Breen adjourned the case until Friday afternoon to receive briefs. In explaining the cause of the spying upon Douglass, Mr. Miller said that his client first discovered he was being tracked three months ago. The man was discharged upon his promise to stay away. This man gave Mr. Miller to understand that he was employed by the Rev. Dr. Buchanan. The agency which hired him threw up the job then, and the Douglass shadowing was taken up by another firm of detectives. They didn't work at it long, and, according to Mr. Miller, Carroll is in the employ of a third firm.

"Dr. Buchanan, who is a half brother of Mr. Dun's second wife, was named as one of the executors of Mr. Dun's will when he died five years ago leaving an estate worth of the executors of Mr. Dun's will when he died five years ago leaving an estate worth about $2,000,000," said Mr. Miller. "He is also one of the trustees of the R. G. Dun corporation, the other trustees and executors being Mary G. Dun, the widow, Mr. Douglass, a nephew and Francis L. Minton.

"Some time ago Dr. Buchanan was compelled to confine his energies in the mercantile agency business entirely to his trusteeship. He apparently became convinced that Mr. Douglass was conspiring against him. That's the only reason I can think of for the hiring of private detectives."

Mr. Miller said that an action in equity would be commenced in the Supreme Court very soon and the case would also get before very soon and the case would also get before the New York Presbytery.

STREET CLEANING SQUAD" GOES. Commissioner Bingham Denies That Its

Purpose Was to Catch Schmittberger. Police Commissioner Bingham announced resterday that he intends to disband the street cleaning squad," which for six weeks has been doing the same kind of work as former Commissioner McAdoo's vice squad-making raids over the heads of inspectors and captains. Sergt. Robert McNaught and Roundsmen George Faubel and Charles Becker, who have been leading the "street cleaners" into precincts and swooping down on gambling houses and poolrooms, will be sent back to their precincts to-day, when it is expected the Commissioner will disorganize the squad. When the Commissioner's announcement became known yesterday it gave rise to the rumor that the "street cleaning squad" had been organized to get after Inspector Max Schmittberger, who is to stand trial in September because of raids made over in September because of raids made over his head while he was commanding the white light district. Gen. Bingham de-nied this, declaring that the squad was not organized to proceed against any captain or inspector. "As a matter of fact, I have always liked Schmittberger," said Bingham, "and I never directed the work of the squad against him alone. Why, only the other day McNaught and his men made a raid over the heads of Inspector McClusky and Capt. McNally down in the Church street station. That doesn't look as if the squad was after

"Do you intend to have charges preferred against McClusky and McNally as a result of the raid?" the Commissioner was asked.
"I don't know yet," he replied; "I can't tell how I'll act until I receive a report on it."
Commissioner Bingham goes on his vacation to-morrow, and he has therefore put the Schmittherger trial over until Sentemthe Schmittberger trial over until September, knowing that the accused inspector intends to make a fight to prove himself innocent of the charges.

THAW'S MOTHER SNUBS WIFE

BREAK FOLLOWS PRISONER'S RE-FUSAL TO BUDGE.

Another Plea to Accept Gloott's Advice Without Avail-Thaw Says Through His Counsel That No Detectives Are Now Working for Him in Pittsburg.

Mrs. William Thaw went to the Tombs resterday to make another plea to her son, Harry Thaw, that he come over to her view that he should accept the advice of Black, Olcott, Gruber & Bonynge in preparing his defence to the killing of Stanford White Thaw wouldn't budge from his attitude that his killing of White was justified, and his wife stood by him and opposed the entreaties of his mother.

As a result there was a break between Mrs. Thaw and her daughter-in-law-the first open one since Mrs. William Thaw returned from Europe-and when Mrs. William Thaw left the Tombs she deliberately, in the opinion of those who saw it, tor of the B. G. Dun Will, Gets the snubbed Mrs. Harry Thaw.

When Mrs. William Thaw got to the Tombs it was evident that she was weak and not entirely recovered from the illness that kept her at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, at Roslyn, L. I. She was accompanied by Mrs. Carnegie. Mrs. Thaw went to her son's cell. Mrs. Harry Thaw had arrived about ten minutes before her. She was chatting with her husband when Mrs. William Thaw Mrs. Carnegie came up.

Mrs. Thaw at once renewed the pleas she has been making to her son for two weeks. Thaw showed the same stubbornness in resisting and opposing his mother's advice. It is said that yesterday he was even more vehement than on former occasions and when his wife openly sided with him he practically said that he didn't want to be othered any more on the subject.

Mrs. William Thaw was quite angry over the attitude of her daughter-in-law. She showed signs of having been crying when she left the Tombs and Mrs. Carnegie's face was hidden by a heavy black veil. Mrs. Harry Thaw had hurried down-

Mrs. Harry Thaw went to Warden Flynn and pleaded to be allowed to use the prison telephone, saying that she had an urgent message to deliver. Her request was granted and she called up her husband's lawyer, Clifford W. Hartridge. He hurried to the Tombs and had a consultation with her and his client. As Mr. Hartridge left the Tombs he said he would give out a state-ment at his office. When the squad of re-porters got there they found this type-written statement:

Clifford W. Hartridge announces that there are no detectives working in Pittsburg on behalf of Harry K. Thaw, or in his interests, except such as may be employed by or con-nected with Chief Roger O'Mara.

What prompted Mr. Hartridge to make that statement he would not explain, nor would he comment on what had happened in the Tombs. It was surmised that Mr. in the Tombs. It was surmised that Mr. Hartridge referred to a story from Pittsburg that a detective agency there had figured it out that Thaw's motive for killing White was that Thaw's mother had cut off his money supply and when White heard of it he tried to win Evelyn Nesbit from her husband. Thaw probably saw the morning papers and was angry when he learned that detectives employed by somebody else were working on his case.

It is known that the Olcott firm has been gathering every little thing that would show that Thaw has been insane for years and that he was insane when he killed White. That is the theory on which the Olcott firm is at work underthe instructions of Mrs. William Thaw, and it is known that they have accumulated a great deal concerning Thaw's acts, not only in public but in private.

SHEPHERDING LONG ACRE CLUB. Manager Pinched as Being in a Misde-

meaning State of Mind. According to Nathan Vidaver the Long Acre Athletic Club will resume its boxing bout exhibitions Thursday next. He withdrew vesterday from the consideration of Supreme Court Justice MacLean his application for an injunction to restrain Sheriff Hayes and the police from interfering. Mr. Vidaver said that his reason for withdrawing the application was that Police Inspector Druhan and Sheriff Hayes had "made affidavits" that they have no intention of interfering with the bouts and that therefore there is no necessity for an injunction. Terence Farley, Assistant Corporation Counsel, who was on hand to oppose the application for the injunction, said that there was absolutely no change in the position was absolutely no change in the position of the police and the Sheriff as regarded the boxing bouts, and that the reason the club managers had abandoned the bouts scheduled for last Thursday under the protection of a temporary stay was that they knew they had not a leg to stand on.

"We have no fear," said Mr. Farley, "that there will be any further attempt to hold these boxing bouts, but if there should be any such attempt the police and the Sheriff will see to it that there is no violation of the law."

After all this had come out in court Police

After all this had come out in court Police Captain Steve O'Brien went forthwith and arrested Michael J. Newmann, manager and arrested Michael J. Newmann, manager and secretary of the club, on a warrant secured by Capt. O'Brien and Assistant District Attorney Corrigan from Magistrate Breen at the Tombs. Newmann was charged with a violation of section 458 of the Penal Code, the affidavits against him declaring that he was "about to aid, instigate and encourage a prizefight or sparring exhibition." Newmann was paroled for a hearing Thursday afternoon.

"I don't know anything about a prizefight, but we are going to have a show at the club Thursday night, if that is what the police have reference to," said Newmann. "No tickets will be sold."

AFTER THE SPOILS SYSTEM. President May Place Internal Revenue Officers Under the Civil Service.

WASHINGTON, July 30 .- The statement was made here to-day that the Administration contemplates throwing the civil service blanket over all the deputy collectors and storekeeper gaugers in the Internal Revenue Service throughout the United States. The plan is now being tried down in North Carolina, and if it works as well as civil service officials believe it will, a general order on the subject will be issued by the Presi-

For several years politicians have been ighting off the extension of the merit principle to the army of internal revenue deputies and gaugers, and up to date they have been successful. A month or so ago the Republican factions in North Carolina got in a rough and tumble fight over the ap-pointment of a Collector in that State. One pointment of a Collector in that State. One of the factions was successful in landing the job, of course, but the victory was soon robbed of its triumph. Coincident with the appointment was the announcement that the President intended to classify all the employees of the Fifth North Carolina collection district, thus avoiding the unseemly scramble for preferment that usually follows the induction of a new Collector into office.

To-day the Civil Service Commission authorized the holding of examinations to obtain a list of eligibles from which to fill vacancies as they may occur in the internal revenue service in North Carolina. At the same time it was made known that the Administration is seriously thinking of promulgating an order covering all deputies and gaugers into the classified service. The matter has been under consideration several search in a now up to the Attorney. months and is now up to the Attorney-General to decide whether in law the Presi-dent has the authority to supplant the spoils system in the Internal Revenue Service with

NOTICE TO COMMON CARRIERS. Must Keep Certain Books Which Shall Be Open to Inspection.

WASHINGTON, July 30 .- The Interstate commerce Commission to-day sent a circular letter to all the railroads in the United States subject to the railroad rate regulation act, calling their attention to the section of the new law which requires that all carriers shall keep certain books, records and documents and that these shall be open to the inspection of the commission. The, letter advises the carriers that no change letter advises the carriers that no change in the present method of accounting is required until the commission shall prescribe the accounts, records or memoranda which are to be kept.

The authority of the commission to inspect the books and accounts of the carriers, the letters, &c., will become operative on August 28, when the rate law goes into effect. The commission realizes the necessity for the prompt establishment of a uniform system of accounting, and it intends to proceed immediately with the work of drafting the regulations, Henry C. Adams, the statistician of the commission, after August 1 will have charge of the preparatory work in drafting the system of railroad accounting to be prescribed by the commission.

The letter especially calls the attention of the carriers to the fact that their annual of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to-day issued a temporary injunction restraining Secretary of the Treasury Shaw from paying to John F. Greene and William T. Gaynor the sum of $25,000, which represented the proceeds from the sale of Government bonds presented for payment by Henry Clews & Co. of New York.

The application for the injunction was made several days ago by attorneys representing the Department of Justice, and th object of the action was to prevent Gaynor and Greene from realizing any profit from the sale of the bonds, which the attorneys for the Government allege were bought with funds embezzled from the Govern-ment through the Gaynor-Greene-Carter combination in Savannah, Ga., several years ago. The bonds are two years overdue, and the injunction granted to-day is without prejudice to the rights of the other defendants to apply for its dissolution.

ONLY THREE CARS HAVE HILL CLIMBING TRIALS. Rain Interferes With Bretton Woods Fixture and a Fresh Start May Be Made To-day-Ernest Keeler Leaves Tourists and Performs Non-Stop Feat. BRETTON WOODS, N. H., July 80 .- It rained to-day and as a new experience the tourists of the Glidden run welcomed it. It was another story for W. J. Morgan and those interested in the hill climb up Crawford Notch, 1.42 miles. The climb was postponed until afternoon. Three cars went up the measured distance on the hill. They were n different classes, and there is dissatisfaction here to-night over the prospect of some cars n the same class competing over a slippery road and the others entered for the having a chance to make the same distance ver dry roads.

F. H. Allen and Dwight Huss went up in Oldsmobiles. Allen made the run in 4 minutes 24 seconds. Huss got stalled, and his time Knox Waterless ran up in 4 minutes 25 seconds. He was in another class. It is possible that the whole thing will be started anew to-

Ernest Keeler, who is to drive the Olds-mobile racer in the American elimination rials for the Vanderbilt cup race, made his oow as a non-stop driver yesterday by con cluding the 505 mile run from Bretton Woods to this city without stopping the engine of his car. He left there at 12.10 o'clock noon on Sunday, Charles J. Glidden writing the starting time on one of his cards, which he handed to Keeler. He arrived at the head-quarters of the New York Motor Club, Broadway and Fifty-fourth street, at 2:28 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Keeler's non-stop car was the 28 horse-power Oldsmobile which had carried No. 51 from Buffalo to Bretton Woods in the contest for the Glidden trophy and made a perfect score. He was accompanied by H. J. DeBear and B. L. Graves, who acted as unicial observers.

The entire time consumed for the trip was 28 hours 18 minutes and the actual running time was 21 hours 30 minutes. Perhaps the most remarkable part of the performance is the fact that Keeler drove the car the entire distance himself, which is a record in itself. The first stop was at Plymouth, N. H., where fifteen minutes was spent in replenishing the gasolene tank. At Concord a stop of an hour was made to secure raincoats, which were badly needed, as it rained for eight were badly needed, as it rained for eight hours of the time the party was on the road. At Nashua a stop of twenty-three minutes was made, and Worcester was reached twenty minutes after midnight. Here an hour and forty-five minutes was used up in getting something to eat and waking up a garage man so more gasolene could be secured. A stop of ten minutes was made at Springfield at 5:15 o'clock in the morning for oil, and Hartford was reached at 6:15 oclock. A stop of forty minutes was made in Hartford, most of which was spent in waking up one of the observers. The next stop was at Bridgeport, where the party remained from 10:30 o'clock until 11:05 o'clock to have something to eat.

From Bridgeport on no more stops were made until the car reached its destination. Keeler was very careful to observe the speed regulations of the cities and towns he passed through, but accelerated his pace on roads where houses were scarce. His average speed, actual running time, was almost twenty-four miles an hour.

Word comes from Paris that England is to be represented by two cars in the Vanderbilt cup race on October 6. According to the report, the Automobile Club of Great Britain and Ireland has nominated two Napier racers, to be driven by Arthur Macdonald and Walter Clifford-Earp, both of whom have competed in the Florida Beach carnivals at Ormond Beach.

Edmund F. Van Hoesen, Deputy State Engineer and Surveyor, recently arrived in Buffalo to inspect stone to be used in the construction of improved highways in Erie county. He said that work on good roads construction is going forward all over the State and that contracts have been let for work amounting to about $4,000,000. The State Engineer's force is busy making plans and estimates for work to be done in 1907, and parties of surveyors are now going over roads which are slated for improvement in 1908.

CURED BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"From childhood I had always been troubled with skin eruptions, more or less, and in winter my hands would crack open all over the back. You could lay a straw in any of them, but since using the Cuticura Remedies for the eczema about five years ago I have not been troubled in any way. At that time, I think, I got the eczema from handling imported hides at the Custom House stores. I doctored for it for over a month without relief. It was on my hands and face, and my hands were swollen twice their size. After losing time, I was told of a woman whose finger nails had fallen off and was cured by the Cuticura Remedies, so I tried them and I was cured, and my skin is in splendid condition now and does not crack in cold veather. I gladly give you permission to publish any part of my letter relating to the cure and use of the Cuticura Remedies. Henry O'Neill, 4949 Girard avenue, Philadelphia, Pa., July 2, 1905."
